A WEEK
OF MIRTH.

Recitations--Essays--A warding Of Medals--Closing Of The Breckenridge Normal College At Hardinsburg.

This institution has just closed one of the most successful seasons in its history. Last week was one round of enjoyable entertainments from Tuesday night until Friday, when the exercises closed.

On Tuesday night there were three recitations by Misses Ruth, Barth, Nita, David and Henry. Monday, the best of these, a full musical hour, was awarded by Mr. Sherman Ball. The recitations were all excellent, but the prize fell to Miss Ruth. The full list of contestants were, Prof. E. T. Groves, of Louisville, Rev. P. M. Petty and editor Wordley. Another contest followed in which six papers were read. The girls having essays in this contest were, Miss Eliza Ritchie, Ruth, Henry, Eva Shuck, Clara E. Kridger and Moore. V. D. Roberts and H. D. Miles. The prize, a beautiful gold medal, was won by Miss Eliza Ritchie; subject, "Poetry." John F. Howell, Jr., Sherman Ball and the Rev. Mr. Harrell were the judges.

On Wednesday night the pupils give an entertainment, the proceeds of which were to go towards furnishing a library for the college. A good crowd attended and a nice sum was realized for this purpose.

Thursday night the oratorical contest came off. The subjects assigned were as follows: "Colonial Times," R. O. Penick, Center; "The Builders," J. W. Trent, Center; "Stream of Literature," Lewis Ditto, Hardinsburg; "You never miss the water till the well runs dry," E. K. Greenwell, Moyleville; "A sketch of United States History," H. J. Roberts, West View. To the one showing the best talent for oratory and having the subject best in hand, a handsome Gold Medal was given. The young man did their level best, and showed that they had been well trained in their efforts. The audience appreciated their efforts in a high degree, and at the close of each address the young men received great applause and a shower of bouquets. The Gold Medal was awarded to R. O. Penick, of Center. The judges of this contest were M. H. Harrell, P. M. Petty, V. D. Roberts, and H. D. Miles.

Friday morning at 10 o'clock there was another hour of exercises and the entertainment closed. J. E. Matthews, R. S. West View, delivered an address on "The Advantages of a Light Education," and R. M. Mander of Center spoke on "Choosing a Profession." Rev. A. H. Davis in a few appropriate remarks conferred the diplomas to these two young graduates.

The music for the occasion was furnished by Miss Kate Eubank, and her assistants. Emma Hendry a bright young man from Preston, received a gold medal for having given the greatest "Pickaninny" song. This prize was given by Dr. Walker.

Morris Edgerton, President of the college board of Directors, spoke very fittingly on the close of the success of the college during the last year's term.

NOTES.
Roberts and Coker were all malles. It was a success.

"Here little girl don't cry" by the young man of 18 light.

J. N. Frost, sang young Penick a choice ballad for that gold medal, an oratory.

The public was disappointed that Miss Judith Ellen D. Jarrett, did not recite, Thursday night.

Miss Ruth Barth of Garrit, brought down the home with her recitation on "Woman's Rights."

There were about four feet of flowers, all told, showered at the feet of the young orators, who tried to lift the roof off with their eloquence.

A Young Han Dies.

ONCE A MIL-LIONAIRE

Now C. H. North Peddles Vegetables From A Cart In Boston.

Formerly Did A Packing Business of $8,000,000 A Year.

Boston, June 9.—C. H. North, ex-millinaire, former head of the North Packing Company, doing a business of $8,000,000 a year, has taken to peddling vegetables from a cart, breadbasket, in ragged clothes and broken shoes.

"I only could get $5,000," he says, "I could get on my feet again and look after my property in Nebraska, the Nebraska Stock Yards Company."

Mr. North still lives in the big house on Beacon street, but he has sold all of his property and the children lived with him in boundless prosperity. But today he occupies two rooms only, and lets the other eleven.

"I brought up my children to work and they are all making their mark," said Mr. North, who was relating his story in the room he occupied as an office. It was formerly the dining room.

Dry-cleaning boxes, papers, desks, table, a coffee mill, a rufey case, a few chairs in various stages of decrepitude, ledgers bearing the title "C. H. North & Co." and a large roll-top desk, upon which littered and scribbled, make up, with all sorts of odds and ends, the furniture of the room.

"This is my office now," he continued. "I used to have my office in the Ames building, till I could get afford to pay the rent. My son Mark went through Ames. He's a veterinary in Cambridge now."

"My eldest daughter married and lives in Chicago. The second daughter married a professor in the University of Wisconsin. The third one married and lives in Boston. My oldest son lives in Boston, the next in Somerville."

Mr. North declares he has been robbed ($5,000,000) and make various charges against his former business associates.

DIVORCE IS NOT TOO EASY.

So Long As Laws Regulating Marriages Are So Loose.

"Every once in a while we have perfect headlines of rights indicating upon the subject of divorce," writes Edward D. McKee, of the New York Times. "The fact of the matter is that there is no such thing as a divorce. It is a fiction, which is altogether wrong, that divorce is easy in this country. Divorce is not easy. I am far from saying that our divorce laws are what they should be. But it is a strange thing to make these laws more stringent while we allow our marriages to be as loose as they are. Let those who cannot say any farther than the provision of our divorce laws ask themselves this question: Is it fair to allow foolish inexperienced girls to be lured into what they believe to be a fair play, and then, when they find it is a prison, to turn, and some, a better, others to the hell and regions—refuse to let them out, if they can get out? Is it not terrible? Is it not? Would we want to come closer to the common sense of this whole question, if before we go to my farther in the campaign against divorce, we turn back and tighten the door which leads to it? Divorce is not so easy until we can afford to leave it precisely where it is for the time being. It isn't a particle easier than it should be, so long as we allow marriage to be as loose as it is."

Mothers who would keep their children in good health should watch for the first symptoms of worms and remove them with WHITE'S CREAM VERMIFUGE. Price 25 cents.

All persons indebted to the firm of Higgins, Willis & Co. will please come and settle with me at once without further notice. With cash or note. Office at Payne & Co's, Hardware store.

Mass Convention

A mass convention of the Democrats of Breckenridge county, was held at the Court House in Hardinsburg last Saturday, for the purpose of choosing delegates to the State Convention to be held in Louisville on the 14th.

The meeting was presided over by Judge Mercer. Mr. Wordley was chosen Secretary.

The first order of business was the selection of a committee to name the delegates. The chair appointed the following for this purpose: Wm. K. Barnes, Wm. Miller, A. J. Groves, D. B. Murray, Robert Hayes, Scott Carter, Richard Owen, Thomas J. Moore, John Alexander, Wm. Miller, Hugh E. Frymire, Alternates were Gus Brown, T. J. Jolly, John Jennings, Dave Moore, Henry Garner, Eli Storms, Dr. Milton Board, Dr. P. W. Foote, Ludwell Addison and Will Hook.

The committee to select delegates, of which Capt. Groves was a member, also brought in a resolution asking the Convention to endorse Henry Watterson, for delegate at large to the Kansas City Convention. This proposition met with a storm of objections from quite a number.

The objectors claimed that Mr. Watterson was not loyal to Bryan in '96, and so they would not vote for him. There was quite a commotion for some time. W. K. Barnes took the floor and in a speech of some length, pleaded for harmony.

When quiet was restored, a resolution was adopted directing the delegates to vote for Mr. Watterson to the Kansas City Convention who was not loyal to Bryan in '96. Wm. Miller and others wanted to modify the resolution by allowing them to vote for those who were loyal to Bryan in 1900, but this was voted down.

The delegates were instructed to vote for D. B. Murray as a delegate to the National Convention from the 4th Congressional district, and for James G. Hays of Elizabethtown, as State delegate. The Convention then adjourned.

Some Indian Children Beheld A Companion And Men Loading Timber Become Panic Stricken And Timber Falls, Killing Eight.

(Louisville Post.)

Green Bay, Wis., June 7.—Some Indian children on the Onondaga reservation near Stockbridge are their mother's lack of the head of a chicken today. This suggested a new game for their childish minds. They resorted to their chicken, they play chicken, and the suggestion was carried out. One of the smaller children was selected to act the part of chicken. The child was thrown to the ground by its playmates, its head placed on a block of wood and backed off.

A number of men were engaged on a derisk in the yard, riding heavy timbers in the erection of a barn. As soon as the men noticed the child being backed they became frightened, and in the confusion the heavy timbers which were being raised fell with a crash, killing eight men.

AN IDEAL COUNTRY HOME.

One of the prettiest and most ideal country homes in this section of the state is that of Mr. John Wimple.

This happy homestead, of land equal to 60 acres and surrounded by the best of the "Blue Grass" region, is only a short distance from the prosperous village town of Irvington, Mo. Wm. and the "Hessons" do not have very deep pockets to the west, but he was happy to see an excellent yield.

Utmost food is digested quickly and the stomach and bowels are kept in good order. After each meal take a teaspoonful of Kadoi Dipepsa Cure. It digests what you eat and will allow you to eat all you need of what you like. It never fails to cure the worst cases of dyspepsia. It is pleasant to take.—A. H. Fisher.

Does Your
Baking Powder
Contain
Alum?

Prof. Geo. F. Barker, M.D., University of Penn.: "All the constituents of alum remain (from alum baking powders) in the bread, and the alum itself is reproduced to all intents and purposes when the bread is dissolved by the gastric juice in the process of digestion. I regard the use of alum as highly injurious."

Dr. Alonzo Clark: "A substance (alum) which can derange the stomach should not be tolerated in baking powder."

Prof. W. G. Tucker, New York State Chemist: "I believe it (alum) to be decidedly injurious when used as a constituent of food articles."

Prof. S. W. Johnson, Yale College: "I regard their (alum and soluble alumina salts) introduction into baking powders as most dangerous to health."

In view of such testimony as this, every care must be exercised by the housewife to exclude the over and over condemned cheap, alum baking powders from her food.

Baking powders made from cream of tartar, which is highly refined grape acid, are promotive of health, and more efficient. No other kind should be used in leavening food. Royal Baking Powder is the highest example of a pure cream of tartar powder.

GENERAL GROSVENOR'S PREDICTION.

(New York World.)

It is obviously too early to make an intelligent forecast of the result of the presidential election. So much depends upon the full tickets and the platforms of the two parties and upon the events that may happen between now and November that no prophecy can be anything more than a hope-fathered guess. Nevertheless the electoral table given to the World by General Grosvenor, a close friend of the president and an experienced politician, is interesting. General Grosvenor claims for Mr. McKinley these states:

California	9	North Dakota	3
Connecticut	6	Ohio	23
Illinois	24	Oregon	4
Indiana	15	Pennsylvania	32
Iowa	13	Rhode Island	4
Maine	6	South Dakota	4
Massachusetts	15	Vermont	4
Michigan	14	Washington	4
Minnesota	9	West Virginia	6
New Jersey	10	Wisconsin	12
New Hampshire	4	Wyoming	3
New York	36
Total			260

He concedes to Mr. Bryan these:

Alabama	11	Montana	3
Arkansas	8	Nebraska	8
Colorado	4	Nevada	3
Florida	4	North Carolina	11
Georgia	13	South Carolina	9
Kentucky	13	Tennessee	12
Idaho	3	Texas	15
Louisiana	8	Utah	3
Maryland	8	Virginia	12
Mississippi	9
Missouri	17	Total	174

And he names as doubtful Delaware, with 3 electoral votes, and Kansas, with 10. As 224 votes are required to elect, General Grosvenor claims a sure majority of only 36 for McKinley—leaving the two doubtful states out of the reckoning. Mr. McKinley's majority over Bryan in 1896 was 95. This Republican congressman is an astute politician. It would almost seem as though he reduced his claim to a minimum for the purpose of encouraging the friends of Mr. Bryan to "go the limit" of heedlessness at Kansas City in a burst of overconfidence. For in spite of General Grosvenor's moderation there is not an intelligent and candid man in either party who does not know that the Democratic chances of success—not too brilliant in any event, with general prosperity prevailing and a war still progressing to aid the party in power—will be greatly promoted by a moderate, modified, living platform. In politics as in war it is a sound maxim not to do that which your enemy most desires.

(Brooklyn, N. Y., Eagle, Sat. Dec.)

There is more in these statements than the desire to convert emptiness into substance. The Republican talkers bank on "prosperity," the gold standard, and on the obligations, attractions, and possibilities of expansion for their case. The Democrats hope to minimize free silver, to magnify the feeling against trusts, and to beat the drums of alarm around militarism, imperialism, and the like. The Republicans are proceeding upon the theory that things are going well, and that well enough will be left alone. The election in our judgment will be hard and close. No man knows what percentage of Democrats will go back to the party or how many Republicans have been alienated by bigness, army legislation, swollen trustism, and the continuous tragedy of life and peace in the Philippines. No one can tell the sinuous or sinister effect of pro-Boer feeling in foreign-born voters here; none can tell the strength of sheer desire, without cause, "to try a change." The formalities of the canvass on either side will be marked by staidness and confidence. The country is apparently to be treated to a repetition of 1896 in 1900—but under different conditions. In that is small appeal either to interest or to imagination; but those who argue the result from the surface only will do well to miss the deeper causes that may be stirring beneath it.

(New York Press, Rep.)

The striking thing about this table, which is attributed to General Grosvenor, it will be observed, is that the 36 predicted McKinley votes in excess of the 224 necessary to a choice are precisely the number of New York's electoral votes. A slip-up on so small an electoral vote as Wyoming's with its three would make it absolutely necessary to hold New York from going to Bryan. This is what is meant when New York is spoken of this year, as formerly, by the national leaders as the "pivotal state." With New York lost the slightest accident anywhere else would bring defeat to McKinley. With New York carried several states of small electoral votes could fall by the wayside without giving the victory to Bryan. And this is why the national leaders think Roosevelt and every one else should bend their energies to the success of the national ticket in New York.

Small in size and great in results are DeWitt's Little Girls Pills, the famous little pills that cleanse the liver and bowels, that do not gripe.—A. R. Fisher.

Looked Like Something Else.—A man saw for the first time a school girl go through her gymnastic exercises for the amusement of the little ones at home. After gazing at her with looks of interest and compassion for some time, he asked a boy if she had fits. "Yes," replied the boy, "them's gymnastics."

"Ah, how sad!" said the man; "how long's she had 'em?"

"Doesn't your brother Tommy ever give you anything Johnny?" "I should say he did! He is the one that saves me the mumps and the measles!"—Baptist Argus.

The Health Problem.

Is much simpler than is sometimes supposed. Health depends chiefly upon perfect digestion and pure blood, and the problem is solved very readily by Hood's Sarsaparilla. You may keep well by taking it promptly for any stomach or blood disorder. It cures of scurvy, salt rheum, catarrh, dyspepsia, rheumatism and other diseases are numbered by the thousands.

The favorite family cathartic is Hood's Pills.

Good Vegetables Not Generally Known.

Some of the most desirable garden vegetables are neglected by most farmers and many village gardeners. Spinach should be planted either in the fall or the first thing in the spring, then it will come in when other greens are scarce. If this is once tried you will never be without it. Prepare a small bed in some sunny part of the garden as soon as the frost is out. Sow the seed and nature will do the rest.

Cauliflower is another neglected vegetable. It is almost as easily grown as cabbage. It requires about the same treatment and in many respects is even more desirable. The only difficulty I find in growing good cauliflower is to get good seed, and if ordered from some reliable house there will be no trouble. Get Henderson's Seedball or Burpee's Early. Another vegetable not common and which requires no great skill is kohlrabi. This should be sown early in spring and summer use and then later in the summer sow for winter. It is given the same treatment as the turnip and possesses some of the characteristics of both the turnip and cabbage.

No garden is complete without a good supply of celery. Sow a few seeds in a hot bed or in boxes in the house, then in July transplant to rows in the garden. These should be about 18 apart in the row and the rows 4 or 5 ft apart. This can be set between rows of early peas or beans and the ground thus made to produce two crops in one season. As soon as the first crop is removed give thorough cultivation. For blanching, the soil may be thrown up about the plants, or if you have a few old tiles these can be slipped over the bunches of celery and they will whiten nicely. The dwarf varieties, such as Boston Market and White Plume, are generally the earliest and best for amateurs.

A few plants of Brussels sprouts will be found quite an addition and as these are a kind of cabbage, the treatment is the same as for cabbage or cauliflowers. The plants grow from 24 to 48 high and bear small heads, which are tender and crisp. They should be cooked or served about the same as cabbage. If your family is fond of soup, sow a short row of okra. The seed should be placed a few inches apart, then later thinned so that the plants will be 14 ft apart. This crop grows very easily and the long, tender seed pods will be found an excellent addition to any soup. The pods can also be gathered and dried and kept for winter use.

One of the very best and least known garden plants is calistho or vegetable opuntia. This is very hardy and is as easily grown as parsnips. Sow early in the spring in rows 12 or 14 ft apart. When the crop is wanted for winter, take up late in the fall and spread in boxes and cover with soil. The roots will keep nicely until spring. They will probably shrivel somewhat, but when placed in water will regain their natural appearance. Properly cooked, some people prefer this to the genuine opuntia. Probably the best varieties are Mammoth Sandwich Island and Bond's Mammoth.—American Agriculturist.

For two years Ira Kelley, of Mansfield, Pa., was in poor health on account of kidney trouble. He consulted several physicians and spent considerable money for medicines without obtaining relief until he tried Foley's Kidney Cure, and now writes, "I desire to add my testimony that it may be the cause of aiding others."—Moorman & Owen.

I visited the Mullany hospital in St. Louis and received no benefit. TRIP TO MANILA.

Cloverport Boy Sees The World
And Relates His Experiences.

CANTEENS SHOULD BE ABOLISHED.

THE CANTINA, January 10, 1900, for New York. Arrived on the coast. Reached the U. S. Transport Grant-Cavall on same day. Passed out of the Metropolitan of the greatest country in the world. To see the forts that protect this city is a most pleasant sight. All of the forts gave us the National salute as we slowly sailed out of the harbor.

The Azores was the next land we saw after leaving Sandy Hook. We were then in four days sail of Gibraltar. Arrived at that point Feb. 1. From N. Y. to Gibraltar is 3,000 miles. We had some very fine weather and some was rough. We left this point Feb. 4. Passed through the strait of Gibraltar into the Mediterranean Sea. Weather, calm and calm. Arrived at Port Said, Feb. 7. Port Said is built on the flat sands at the entrance of the Suez canal. Its harbors contain one of the largest coal stows in the world. The vessels are supplied at the rate of 200 tons an hour. The place is noted for its wickedness. It abounds in French cafes and dance halls where wine, women and music continued the night long.

Last year 3,500 vessels traversed the canal. The average time of transit is 24 hours a day, and 10 hours by night with electric lights.

In order to navigate by night, a vessel must light the way by carrying an electric projector at her bow as close to the water as possible and pay the closest attention to the order of the stations. Three white lights show vertically indicating to slow down and stop. The first and last white lights is the order to stop. The steamer hails in, make fast, puts out all lights and lies snug in her berth alongside the desert, while the oncoming vessel, looking like a comet, streaks past by. One white light from the gear and lines are let go and the journey continues until Suez is reached. Suez is an uninteresting collection of shipping houses and a small native and a few tumble down mosques, domes and donkey boys swarm along the docks. The novelty of such a ride is enjoyable. The heat of the day is intense, but the night, especially around the canal, is most delightful.

After leaving Suez we passed through the Gulf of the same name into the Red Sea, where the water is blue, the ground, light brown, the hazy atmosphere pink, and the temperature in the left hand of the vessel is a forest, viewing the brown peak of Mt. Sinai; other well remembered biblical places stretch along the distant coast like the constellations in the blue sky. From May to September, there is a perceptible swell and is sure to bring gales, rain, lightning, and thunder. August is the best summer month for cruising in the Indian Ocean. The North East Monsoon is less violent than the South West and has clear skies and a milder temperature. However in going around the world, passengers, like ships, must take chances with the weather. Having fair weather at Bombay may bring it foul at Calcutta. Vessels make the trip from Aden to Bombay, which is 10,700 miles, in seven days and when the tides permit go alongside the docks. The traveler knows the busy sailors and the many clanked people before him. For here are congregated Indian princes dressed in flowing robes of rich colors, Brahmins, and Buddhas with turbans and sacred necklaces bound about their brows. Parsis in long, white, skirted coats and odd shaped high hats; Turks in fescues; Chimmens in silks; Jews, Mohammedans, and Europeans of every description. Along the water front pass unceasingly women, strait as javelins, tall, thin, and graceful; their breast covered with tight sleeveless tunics, their waist and hips bound in light, flowing gowns. Silver bangles adorn their arms and legs; rings glint in their nose and ears, and on their toes and fingers. Bareheaded, barefooted, their black hair tucked loosely under their shapely heads on which are high, brass, water jugs burnished like gold. These graceful creatures walk the streets like queens of an oriental fabre. Many lines of vessels converge at Bombay, but the British India office has the largest number of routes to the sight seeing traveler. One of its lines leads to the northern part of India; one goes to Calcutta, a third goes to Mombasa, and a fourth reaches the important places on the Persian gulf.

The tourist should certainly take the fourth route if he has the time, though it carries him into the most trying climate. Before starting he should get "Moor's Little Book." It can be bought at an English book store in Bombay, and read it on the way, as some of the scenes are laid in these waters.

The passengers on these gulf streams are of as many types as those seen in Bombay. It is not likely that at the twenty or more that sit down to eat, that there will be any two of the same nationality. Chimmens usually cook, and Indians handle the cargo and manage the ship.

About 400 miles from Karachi is Made, dirty and dilapidated, with absolutely no wealth of its prehistoric wealth. The first place of importance is Bushire, 300 miles farther up. This is the principal seaport of Persia. A vast amount of trade which is transported to and from the interior by long caravans of camels. Persian cats can be bought here for five dollars a pair.

From Bushire to Basrah, on the Euphrates, is 180 miles. A narrow canal-like stream leads from the river to the native village where Kindal the sailor is said to have roamed.

Connection can be made at Basrah with a steamer going up the river past the Garden of Eden, a disappointing, flat-topped for plain, to Bagdad; thence by canal to points in the interior. Steamers in the Persian gulf trade take in dates, grain and wool, leaving cotton fabrics, rice, opium, etc.

The run to Colombo, Ceylon, 875 miles, is made over a warm, smother sea and on the fifth day the harbor is entered. Colombo is a center for steamers. Vessels of the Long Trunk line run from Ceylon to coal provision, refrigerated passengers, and to unload and receive freight. They come from the four quarters of the globe; from Calcutta and Bombay in the north; from China and Singapore in the east; from Mauritius and Africa in the south; from Aden and the Suez Canal in the west. Singapore is the half-way house on the great highway between India and China, where all ships large and small stop. Its position is a most important one, not only as a large coaling and docking station, but to a greater extent as an immense depot for goods. The shipping docks are crowded. The docks and streets are full of bustle and activity, of hurrying and running hard-working Chinese, Japanese and Europeans unmindful of a temperature averaging 85 degrees. This town of such activity and air lies almost under the equator, in lat. 10 degrees and 17 seconds north, and is in longitude 104 degrees east, just 12 hours ahead of New York from which place it is separated by 12,000 miles of water, requiring about 43 days of sailing. Singapore has steam accommodations with 152 different vessels. During the year 3600 foreign vessels enter the harbor and nearly the same number clear, representing a shipping movement of over 5,000 tons. The regular lines make connection at Singapore with the Netherlands-India Steam Ship Company.

After spending several months in Manila, we boarded a vessel, which was coming over the Northern route. The first land we saw was Japan. We landed at Nagasaki for the purpose of coaling and taking a supply of water sufficient for the remainder of our voyage. After leaving this point, we had 17 days of the roughest weather and it added much to the monotony of the remainder of our trip.

During those long and tedious days each one was anxiously awaiting the sight of the great and glorious U. S. We arrived at San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 29, making our voyage from Manila in 28 days.

I must say, however, that the Filipinos are a sober and peaceable people. They have a kind of drink which is called "Tuba." Of this some of them imbibe freely, but not nearly so much as our own American people do.

I also notice that since our army took Manila, there has been no more fighting. There have been no more soldiers have been sent, and many soldiers have been sent back to the streets. It is my opinion that the campaign should not be allowed in the army. —Charles Carter, Cloverport, Ky., Jan. 9, 1900.

Planable, but Fatted.

The cunning of children is well recognized to be of a superior kind, and it is seldom if given a chance that they cannot invent their little ruses. In an instance of where a little girl slipped up on this by not taking into consideration that her mother had had some experience with children to have an insight into their nature.

The girl's birthday was a couple of weeks off, and her mother had had some experience with children to have an insight into their nature.

"Oh, that's all right!" exclaimed the mother, "I'll forget what it is before then." —Memphis Scholastic.

"My Dear Sir," exclaimed Lawyer Bartholomew Livingston, meeting the Rev. Dr. Archibald Wingham on the village street, "What does this mean? I thought you were laid up with all sorts of bad disease!"

"And I was," replied the reverend gentleman, "but I have been up and about for some time now, and I am feeling much better. When the time of the medicine man can be, they can't tell the truth."

"Yes," said the minister, "the minister, and the two passed on."

A HOBO ON A TRAIN.

His brief interview with a Breckenridge man and the Conductor.

"I spent several hours in a small country town not far from here a few days ago," said a young professional man of this city, "and to kill time I joined the usual group in the corner grocery store. One of the crowd was a freight brakeman, and he told a story about a tramp who was stealing a ride on the bumpers during his last run."

"The conductor seen him first," he said, "and when he came back to the engine he said, 'Look here, there's a damned ugly looking hobo on the trucks behind the first car. Suppose you go up and fire him off.'"

"All right," says the conductor. When I got to the first car, I looked down, and sure enough, there was a big, grumpy hobo, squatting on the edge, holding on to the brake iron. "Till there," says I, "what if you mean by try to beat the road? We're going slow now and you hop right off!"

The hobo reached around into his pocket and pulled out a gun about a yard long. When he pointed it at me, I looked like a piece of stovepipe. "Youreckless baboon," says he, "if you don't go 'bout your business real sudden, I'll cut your face in! Skip!" says he. I skipped.

"When I got back to the caboose, the conductor says, 'Bill, did you fire the hobo?'" "No," says I. "In chatin' with him," I says, "I found out we was kin, and I didn't realize he had the heart to honour the poor fellow." "Well, I'll do it myself, then," says the conductor, getting hot, and away he goes over the tops. Pretty soon I could hear him cussin' back like a steam locomotive. He slid down the brake iron like a streak of greased lightning and pulled the caboose seat all out of breath. "Did you fire him?" says I. "No," says he, "he sort of faint." "Why, he faint?" "That's what I pretend to be surprised," says I. "Well, I'll tell you," says he, "confidential, 'tis funny, but if you know, when we got to talking, I found out he was kin to me too." —Chicago Inter Ocean.

"DEAR MR. PINKNEY—Two years ago I began having such dull, heavy dragging pains in my back, muscles were profuse and painful, and was troubled with leucorrhoea. I took patent medicines and consulted a physician, but received no benefit and could not become pregnant. Seeing one of your books, I wrote to you telling you my troubles and asking for advice. You answered my letter promptly and I followed the directions faithfully, and derived so much benefit that I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough. I began to feel again. I cannot praise it enough." —Miss CONA GILSON, YATES, MASSACHUSETTS.

"Your Medicine Worked Wonders." "I had been sick ever since my marriage, and my doctor had given me birth to four children, and had two miscarriages. I had falling of womb, leucorrhoea, pains in back and legs; I had experienced the most wonderful troubles and can enjoy my life. Your medicine worked wonders for me." —MRS. S. A Fisherman's Trick.

"One day I was talking fish with a number of friends," said an old fisherman, "and I made a bet that I could catch more perch than any other man in the party in a given time. The crowd gathered round me, and I began fishing in the lot, and we set a day to try my luck. The day before the match I got a large glass jar, filled it with water and put some minnows in it. Over the mouth of the jar I put a piece of parchment in which I had made some small holes. Then I went to a point just east of the waterworks, picked out a likely spot and sank the jar in the river, first attaching a cork line to it by which I could locate it next day."

"We went out for the fishing match the following morning, and I soon found my jar and anchored there. The other man located a short distance away, and we began. The perch were just beginning to run, and in a little while I had pulled in 130 perch, while my opponent got 24. Then he gave up, and I won my bet."

"I showed the boys the trick before we left the fishing ground. You can always find out how to catch perch in that way make good catch of fish that will swallow minnows. The eight of the bait in the jar always attracts a crowd of fish and seems to put them in good biting humor." —Detroit Free Press.

A LETTER FROM TEXAS.

The Crops In That Section In A Splendid Condition.

McKinney, Tex., June 2nd 1900. —Dear Mr. Babcock—Thinking that some of my friends and readers of the News would like to know how Texas is, I am writing to give you some of the news of old Collins county.

The corn here is in a splendid condition, just beginning to tassel. The cotton has been damaged considerably by web worms. The oats crop is generally good, but this year it has been badly hurt by the wind, and the spring oats are nearly all down.

The wheat crop was never better; it is ripe and ready to harvest, but the heavy rain this past week have prevented the farmers from going into the fields. Some of the best posted men place the wheat crop of this county at 100,000 bushels, but unless we have fair weather for a few days, it will not reach that number.

Rev. Abe McKinley, the great evangelist, has just closed a most successful mission in McKinney—conversion 300, and additions to church 149. The following statement is a summary of the work accomplished; collections for the Orphan's Home at Waco, Tex., $10.50; free will offerings for incidental expenses, $10.00; total $20.50 and the amount raised for a new Methodist church, $9,630.50.

This has been one of the grandest religious revivals McKinney has ever known. Every one is delighted with Rev. McKinley, and his strong, eloquent and practical sermons will be long remembered. His sermon on "Redemption" was especially liked. The meeting was held in a tabernacle erected for the occasion, with a good attendance both the afternoon and night services.

I remain yours truly,
W. W. GILLOWAY.

Would Not Suffer So Again For Fifty Times Its Price.

I awoke last night with severe pains in my stomach. I never felt so badly in all my life. When I came down to work this morning I felt so weak I could hardly walk. I went to Miller & McCord's drug store and they recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It worked like magic and one box cured all my troubles. It certainly is the fastest thing I ever used for stomach trouble. I shall not be without it in my home hereafter, for I should not care to endure the sufferings of last night again.

Very truly yours, —G. H. Wilson, Livermore, Burgettsville, Washington Co., Pa. This remedy is for sale by A. R. Fisher, Cloverport, R. A. Shellenham, Breckenridge.

Admiral Wagon on Geography.

During the Boer war of 1890 the admiral was hopelessly ignorant of the geography of South Africa. The admiral in charge of the fleet at Cape Town received strict orders that he was not on any account to land on the shores of South Africa. Now as the admiral is a good many hundred miles from the sea and lies on the coast river, which is barely 200 yards across and dry for three years of the year, this order was superfluous.

The same anecdote is told at Port Elizabeth, and the admiral's head is still in the air. The admiral called out asking him what he was doing. He said he was looking for the location of the fleet without instructions, and the admiral said he was looking for the location of the fleet without instructions. The admiral called out asking him what he was doing. He said he was looking for the location of the fleet without instructions, and the admiral said he was looking for the location of the fleet without instructions.

By the way, the names Algoa and Delagoa bay are derived from the Dutch and the names of the old East Indian who, on their voyages to Goa, in India, were wont to call at Port Elizabeth on the outward voyage and at Lourenço Marques on the homeward voyage. Hence the names Algoa (Goa) and Delagoa (Goa).—Stray Stories.

The Sultan's Barbarous Capital.

Ladies have often told me they have been surprised when they have seen a European lady unveiled, boldly expecting him to give way to her or at any rate not avoiding him, and the lady, who is an advance on her part.

A Yokohama correspondent of the Indianapolis Press, who witnessed the religious ceremony of fire walking in Tokyo, says: "After the fire walkers had made their way over the burning planks, and had reached the other side, they were met by a large number of women who had followed them. They were all crying and weeping, and some of them were holding up their hands and saying, 'O God, forgive us, for we have sinned against thee.'"
